I. Center Overview

History

Created 35 years ago under a bequest from Buffalo attorney Christopher Baldy, the Baldy Center for Law & Social Policy supports interdisciplinary research on law, legal institutions and social policy throughout the University at Buffalo. The Center not only engages faculty and students campus-wide, it also has national and international impact through the scholarly publications, conferences, workshops, and other activities described in this report. The center is housed at the SUNY Buffalo Law School.

Baldy Fellowships in Interdisciplinary Legal Studies

The Baldy Center continued its fellowship program for scholars pursuing important topics in law, legal institutions, and social policy during the 2013-2014 academic year; four fellowships were awarded.

Fellows are expected to participate regularly in Baldy Center events, but otherwise have no obligations beyond vigorously pursuing their research. Fellows receive standard university research privileges (library, Internet, office space, computer, phone) and are encouraged to develop collaborative research projects with SUNY Buffalo faculty members where appropriate. Those who wish to teach a course to aid their research or gain teaching experience are accommodated on a case-by-case basis.

The 2013-2014 Post-doctoral Fellows were:

Or Bassok studied law at Hebrew University, Yale (JSD), and New York University (Tikvah Scholar), and investigated the role of law politics in constitutional thinking as a Baldy fellow.

Jesse Norris studied sociology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison (Ph.D.), and law at the University of Wisconsin (JD), and investigated alleged entrapment in domestic terrorism prosecutions.

Anna Su obtained a BA from the Ateneo de Manila University, a JD, LLM and SJD from Harvard, and researched international religious law and examining the extraterritoriality of the First Amendment as a Baldy Fellow.

Kaja Tretjak, holds a law degree from the University of California, Berkeley, a B.A. from Columbia University, a Ph.D. in anthropology at the City University of New York, and researched the contemporary resurgence of libertarianism in the U.S.

Conferences

September 19-20, 2013

"Workshop on Race, Space, and Exclusion"

This workshop focused on persistent and more recent, innovative spatial forms of racial exclusion in contemporary metropolises. The purpose of the workshop was to examine the connections between longstanding spatial mechanisms of racial exclusion and indirect, elusive spatial practices that have emerged in recent decades. The organizers plan to produce a publication that examines how different theoretical assumptions, approaches, and methods intersect, overlap and feed into each other to advance the understanding of racial exclusion and the consequences for urban minorities.

October 3-4, 2013

"The Great Lakes Futures Project: Policy Pathways Toward a Socio-Ecologically Sustainable Future for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River Basin"

This conference reviewed the policy and governance implications of recommendations developed by an international, interdisciplinary research network of 16 Canadian and U.S. institutions. The goal of the project is to clarify the key drivers and threats to long term flourishing in the Great Lakes Region.
