A Friday Night International Film & Discussion Series

Friday, January 27, 5:00-7:00 P.M., Knox 4
Mitr, My Friend

“Mitr, My Friend” is the story of a young woman who leaves India to join her new husband in California and the life they build together as they adapt to a new culture and raise a family. The challenges they face raising bicultural children strain their marriage, which leads each to search for new outlets and self-discovery.

Friday, March 30, 5:00-7:00 P.M., Knox 4
Last Train Home

Like many of China’s rural poor, the Zhangs have left their native village in Sichuan province and their newborn daughter to find work in Guangzhou in a garment factory. They work there for 16 years, seeing their daughter only once a year. Their daughter Qin, now a restless and rebellious teenager, resents her parents’ absence and longs for her own freedom away from school and her rural hometown. She eventually leaves school to work in the city.

Friday, February 24, 5:00-7:00 P.M., Knox 4
Central Station

“Central Station” is an emotive journey of a former Brazilian school teacher who writes letters for illiterate people and a young Brazilian boy, whose mother has just died, in search for the father he never knew.

All films are free and open to the public.
