

The Washington Post

Mother falcon attacks dog, people in Buffalo, NY

The Associated Press
Tuesday, June 15, 2010; 3:13 PM

BUFFALO, N.Y. -- Her chicks have left the nest, but a peregrine falcon nesting on a Buffalo tower is proving to be an overprotective mother. Antoine Lanier said he saw the falcon recently chase a teenage boy across a street near the University of Buffalo's South Campus, where a falcon nesting platform is perched on McKay Tower.

Minutes later, Lanier said the falcon swooped in and attacked his dog, leaving the pooch with bloodied paws and ears.

State wildlife biologist Connie Adams said the falcon chicks hatched on the UB tower have left the nest, but the mother remains defensive of her territory.

She said the falcon attacked a pair of bird watchers and a man working on the roof of a Buffalo hospital.

Adams said the mother falcon should become less aggressive in about two weeks.

---

Information from: WIVB-TV, <http://www.wivb.com>

Advertisement

HIRED!
Jason C.
Director of Marketing

FIND A GREAT JOB NOW! >>

The Ladders® THE MOST $100K+ JOBS

Sponsored Links

2010's # 1 Green Energy Pick

Gains of 500% or more short-term! Sign up for FREE updates!
www.EnergyStockReports.com

TODAY: iPads for $123.74?

ALERT: iPads are being auctioned for 95% off today!
www.ctips.net

Ditech® Official Site

Fast & Friendly Service. Apply Online and Start Saving Today!
www.Ditech.com

Buy a link here

© 2010 The Associated Press