

Print | Close this window

US SEC hires Goldman vice president for enforcement

---

Fri Oct 16, 2009 3:44pm EDT

WASHINGTON, Oct 16 (Reuters) - A former Goldman Sachs (GS.N: Quote, Profile, Research, Stock Buzz) vice president has been named the chief operating officer of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's enforcement division, the regulator said on Friday.

Adam Storch, who was a vice president in Goldman's "business intelligence group," will be responsible for managing projects and other operational aspects of the SEC's enforcement division, the agency said.

The SEC has been working at hiring staff with Wall Street experience after the Bernard Madoff scandal highlighted the need for those with current market experience.

SEC Chairman Mary Schapiro and her director of enforcement Robert Khuzami are revamping the agency's enforcement efforts. (Reporting by Rachelle Younglai)

© Thomson Reuters 2009. All rights reserved. Users may download and print extracts of content from this website for their own personal and non-commercial use only. Reproduction or redistribution of Thomson Reuters content, including by framing or similar means, is expressly prohibited without the prior written consent of Thomson Reuters. Thomson Reuters and its logo are registered trademarks or trademarks of the Thomson Reuters group of companies around the world.

---

Thomson Reuters journalists are subject to an Editorial Handbook which requires fair presentation and disclosure of relevant interests.