

Powered by Clickability

Posted: 8:41 AM Oct 20, 2010

Prostate Cancer May Increase Colon Cancer Risk

New research finds men with prostate cancer have an increased risk of developing colon cancer.

Reporter: KKTv

Like

One person likes this. Be the first of your friends.

New research finds men with prostate cancer have an increased risk of developing colon cancer.

Researchers at the University of Buffalo say that prostate cancer patients have significantly more colon polyps than men without prostate problems. While most polyps are benign, studies how many colon cancers begin as polyps.

Men with prostate cancer are advised to be especially diligent about having routine colonoscopies.

Find this article at:

http://www.kktv.com/home/headlines/Prostate_Cancer_May_Increase_Colon_Cancer_Risk_105345418.html

Check the box to include the list of links referenced in the article.

Copyright © 2002-2010 - Gray Television Group, Inc.