Welcome to the University at Buffalo!

We’re excited to have you here. UB is a top 50 university in a top city in which to attend college, and with more than 1,300 acres across three unique campuses, we’ve got a lot to show off.

Your visit is a chance to see the real UB. We’re one of the nation’s premier flagship universities, and you can feel our reputation for excellence in every classroom; the unforgettable connections forged in every residence hall; and the lifetime of opportunity in every degree earned here.

This guide will help you make the most of your time on campus. We’ve included suggestions for what to do while you’re here, important dates to note and maps to help you get around. If you remember one thing from your visit to the University at Buffalo, make it this: UB is more than a place; it’s a way of life.

What to Do

- Take a campus tour. Visit Capen 12 to sign up for a guided tour or grab a copy of our self-guided walking tour brochure.
- Tour a residence hall. See what it’s like to live at UB. Contact Campus Living at 716-645-2171 to schedule a tour. Tours are held daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
- Meet with an admissions counselor. Get your questions answered. Visit Capen 12 to request a meeting with a counselor.
- Meet with a financial aid advisor. Our helpful staff in the Student Response Center (Capen 232) are here to help you understand the financial aid process.
- Attend a class. Sit in on a class to see what a UB education is all about. Information is available at casadvising.buffalo.edu/prospective/class_visitation.html.
- Eat. Fill up at our food courts in the Student Union and the Commons or visit one of our residence hall dining centers. (Tip: There’s a Tim Hortons café in the Union and a Starbucks café in the Commons.)
- Explore. Head to the South Campus and see Hayes Hall, recently added to the National Register of Historic Places, and then make your way to the booming downtown medical campus. Both are just a short drive or bus ride from the North Campus.
