Injured UB wrestler making progress

NEWS SPORTS DESK

March 17, 2010, 12:14 am /

Dan Bishop, the University at Buffalo wrestler who suffered a spinal cord injury on March 6 at the Mid-American Conference championships, is making encouraging progress, according to a report from his father, Norm Bishop.

Norm Bishop reported that his son "has regained some fine motor skills in his hands — he sent a text [message] today [Tuesday] for the first time — but more importantly, Danny stood up on his own for 30 seconds today."

According to Norm Bishop, "the nurses were shocked."

Bishop has been sitting up in a chair and continues to move his legs on his own. Doctors are planning on moving him from the hospital in Saginaw, Mich., to the Sunnyview Rehabilitation Hospital in Schenectady on Thursday where he will move into full-scale rehab.
