DONALD TRUMP President and CEO, Professor of Oncology, RPCI

WE ARE HONORED TO PAY TRIBUTE TO YOU, our distinguished faculty colleagues, at this annual celebration of UB authors. Your published works represent in tangible form one of the most important functions of UB's mission as a public research university: to create and share scholarly knowledge as lasting contributions.

Today, we celebrate your contributions to our academic community, to scholarly discourse more broadly, and to the world around us. The publication of your scholarship is a testament to its great social relevance—to the scope of its reach and importance to those who will read it, respond to it, and be inspired by it.

In one sense, the publication of your work represents the end of efforts that likely required months and years of work. But in a deeper sense, it marks the beginning of a new process of creation as your ideas are lifted off the page, translated into action, and built upon by others.

Your achievements prove that the best scholarship is, at heart, an act of community-building. Your theories make possible new ways of thinking about problems, some that are as old as humanity itself, others that are just emerging. And your innovations help to improve the quality of life for individuals and communities the world over.

Thank you for your unique insights, congratulations on your achievement in publishing them, and best wishes for your continued success in your scholarly pursuits.

PUBLICATION HAS BEEN THE NATURAL CONCLUSION

of medical research since the age of Hippocrates, each treatise informing those to follow. The seventy works of the Hippocratic Corpus, which first appeared between the sixth and fourth centuries BCE, influenced the writing of the Persian scientist/physician Ibn Sina, whose fourteen volume Canon of Medicine served for hundreds of years as the cornerstone of medical education, inspiring ideas that gave rise to modern medicine. A millennium later, the motivation to publish remains unchanged. Through publication, investigators and scholars share their knowledge and discoveries with colleagues around the world, increasing our collective potential to reduce human suffering. I take great pride in acknowledging and thanking the faculty members whose published books move us closer to the realization of that hope.

FOREWORD

BY

JORGE V. JOSÉ Vice President for Research

IN OUR THIRD ANNUAL SALUTE TO UB AUTHORS, we again honor recent works by University at Buffalo and Roswell Park Cancer Institute authors that have been composed into book form.

Now that this annual salute has occurred three times, I am interested in looking both retrospectively and prospectively at this tangible example of UB scholarship. Over the three years, UB faculty have produced on average approximately ninety full-length scholarly books on an annual basis; indeed, we have paid tribute to over three hundred UB authors and their three hundred and fifty books since our first recognition event in 2007. This large number of UB authored books, in such a short period of time, is truly remarkable. We have seen examples of a broad array of subjects and scholarship across the entire academic spectrum: these major works are a true reflection of the breadth and depth of the expertise and creativity at a comprehensive research university such as UB, and including our affiliated institutions such as Roswell Park Cancer Institute.

This year's tribute follows what should by now be considered a yearly tradition. We honor works of poetry, textbooks in the physical and biological sciences and engineering, works in the arts and the humanities, and books which have been translated into foreign languages. There are works that address important current public policy issues and critical societal questions in education, national and international justice, and human rights across the globe.

We honor the determination and discipline of our UB authors in bringing their scholarship to the printed page, and are pleased to add their works to the continuously growing number of works by our authors. May this celebration encourage you to even further success and be an inspiration to others for emulation.

My sincere congratulations to our UB authors.

Happy Pills in America: From Miltown to Prozac

BY DAVID HERZBERG. JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY PRESS

"Excellent... stresses the dynamics of sex roles and social class that underlie the culture of psychotropic drug use."

NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF MEDICINE

Pictures from a Drawer: Prison and the Art of Portraiture

BY BRUCE JACKSON. TEMPLE UNIVERSITY PRESS

"The human dimensions of these images grant each an irreversible dignity for the first time, while simultaneously taking on the essential characteristic Jackson names: they become 'mirrors' of ourselves."

PUBLISHERS WEEKLY

Beautiful Monsters: Imagining the Classic in Musical Media

BY MICHAEL LONG. UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PRESS

"A virtuoso performance. Long has fashioned, in elegant prose, a thrilling mosaic of critical interpretation, one that is assured a central place on the leading edge of music scholarship."

ALBIN ZAK, AUTHOR OF THE POETICS OF ROCK:
CUTTING TRACKS, MAKING RECORDS

---

Inside El Barrio: A Bottom-Up View of Neighborhood Life in Castro's Cuba

BY HENRY LOUIS TAYLOR JR. KUMARIAN PRESS

"Henry Taylor's research is crucial and opportune, delving into a marginal culture that's crying out for study after half a century of revolution."
