RECOGNITION

THE FOURTH ANNUAL SALUTE TO UB AUTHORS

University at Buffalo The State University of New York

PREFACE

BY
JOHN B. SIMPSON President
SATISH K. TRIPATHI Provost
DONALD TRUMP President and CEO, Professor of Oncology, RPCI

CONGRATULATIONS TO ALL of the distinguished faculty colleagues we honor at this annual celebration of UB authors. Today, we celebrate your contributions to our academic community, to scholarly discourse more broadly, and to the world around us. The publication of your scholarship is a testament to its great social relevance—to the scope of its reach and importance to those who will read it, respond to it, and be inspired by it.

Your published works are the tangible representation of one of the most important functions of UB's mission as a public research university: to create and share scholarly knowledge as lasting contributions that change our world for the better. In one sense, the publication of your work represents the end of efforts that likely required months and years of work. But in a deeper sense, it marks the beginning of a new process of creation as your ideas are lifted off the page, translated into action, and built upon by others.

Your achievements prove that the best scholarship is, at its heart, an act of community-building. Your theories make possible new ways of thinking about problems, some that are as old as humanity itself, others that are just emerging. And your innovations help to improve the quality of life for individuals and communities the world over.

Thank you for your intellectual contributions, congratulations on your achievement in publishing them, and best wishes for your continued success in your scholarly pursuits.

John B. Simpson
President

Satish K. Tripathi
Provost

IT IS WITH PLEASURE AND ENTHUSIASM that I congratulate this year's faculty authors from Roswell Park Cancer Institute. Toni Morrison, the Nobel Prize- and Pulitzer Prize-winning American author, once said, "If there's a book you really want to read, but it hasn't been written yet, then you must write it." The authors we honor today have each identified a need and have responded! Each author has given us a book that needed to be written, developing new ideas and concepts often in collaboration with other scholars from around the globe. Their books represent the culmination of great ideas brought to life through scholarship, imagination and innovation.

Thank you, authors! Your contributions are significant; your legacy, enduring. I am proud of your efforts in advancing the fields of research and medicine.

Donald Trump, MD, FACP
President and CEO,
Roswell Park Cancer Institute

FOREWORD

BY
JORGE V. JOSÉ Vice President for Research

IN OUR FOURTH ANNUAL SALUTE TO UB AUTHORS, we again honor recent books by UB and Roswell Park Cancer Institute writers and editors.

I am always impressed with the sheer number of full-length scholarly books you and your UB colleagues complete each year. This year, we recognize more than 70 volumes. When we add those works to the number that we have recognized since 2007, the year we published our inaugural anthology of recognition, we have paid tribute to nearly 400 books. This is an impressive number — one in which you and all UB-RPCI authors should feel an enormous sense of pride. We continue to see examples of scholarship spanning a wide range of disciplines, reflecting the breadth and depth of the expertise and creativity at UB, a comprehensive university, and its affiliates.

This year's tribute follows in what we hope you agree has become an honored tradition. We honor works of poetry; textbooks in the sciences, medicine and engineering; works of fiction; and works translated into foreign languages. The works in our anthology address some of today's most pressing societal concerns, covering topics ranging from public policy and health to education, justice and human rights across the globe.

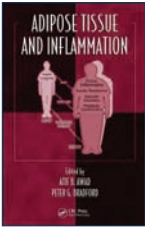

We honor your determination and discipline in bringing your work to the printed page. We are pleased to add your works to the continuously growing number that UB-RPCI authors are producing. May this celebration encourage even further success and inspire others to join your company in the future.

My sincere congratulations to you,

Jorge V. José
Vice President for Research

Baroque Horrors: Roots of the Fantastic in the Age of Curiosities

BY DAVID CASTILLO | UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN PRESS

“David Castillo takes us on a tour of some horrific materials that have rarely been considered together. He sheds a fantastical new light on the baroque.”

ANTHONY J. CASCARDI, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY

Unlimited Intimacy: Reflections on the Subculture of Barebacking

TIMES HIGHER EDUCATION

Tort, Custom and Karma:

Globalization and Legal Consciousness in Thailand

BY DAVID M. ENGEL AND JARUWAN S. ENGEL | STANFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

“This is a brilliant and artful account of the dwindling of law in contemporary Thai life. It presents a formidable challenge to the widespread expectation that globalization will be accompanied by enlarged reliance on increasingly similar law.”

MARC GALANTER, LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

Protein Interaction Networks: Computational Analysis

BY AIDONG ZHANG | CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

“This book provides the most comprehensive and systematic review of an important biomedical research topic (protein interaction networks). It gives its readers an opportunity to easily learn about this challenging topic and to begin investigating how they may contribute to it. Its great value makes it suitable for a broad range of readers, from students to experienced researchers.”

URBAN VIEWS WEEKLY

Shaken Allegiances

BY MICHEL BRUNEAU | CEPAGES PRESS

“An earthquake cuts off Montreal Island from the world, and a whole circus of Canadian politics, media, and so much more erupt around it. A cynical and humorous look at the Quebec issue and modern Canada, ‘Shaken Allegiances’ is uniquely Canadian and deserves a place in world fiction collections.”

MIDWEST BOOK REVIEW

The Commerce of War: Exchange and Social Order in Latin Epic

BY NEIL COFFEE | UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS

“Coffee’s readings offer persuasive new interpretations, resolve interpretive deadlocks, and illuminate aspects of epic narrative that other analytical models have not successfully addressed. To adopt the favored terms of this profitable study, ‘The Commerce of War’ is both liberal with its insights and maximizes the utility of its conclusions.”

NEIL W. BERNSTEIN, OHIO UNIVERSITY

What Are Campaigns For?:

The Role of Persuasion in Electoral Law and Politics

BY JAMES A. GARDNER | OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

“...a masterful account by a genuinely learned and gifted academic on a subject that is critical to democracy but too-long neglected. Jim Gardner fills the gap in a book that is an absolute must-read for any student of law and democracy. What are Campaigns For? is a truly thoughtful and useful book.”

GUY-URIEL E. CHARLES, DUKE LAW SCHOOL

Mainland Passage: The Cultural Anomaly of Puerto Rico

BY RAMON SOTO-CRESPO | UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA PRESS

“An extraordinarily effective and persuasive synthesis of political theory, historical exposition, and cultural analysis that does real justice to a topic of daunting complexity. Ramón Soto-Crespo’s readings strike me as some of the best work being done now in US Latino literary criticism.”

RICARDO L. ORTÍZ, GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Images of Thought:

Philosophical Interpretations of Carlos Estévez’s Art

BY JORGE J. E. GRACIA | SUNY PRESS

“This is a fine contribution to the analysis of a major Cuban and Latin American artist, and it is perhaps the first of its kind. While it is focused on a particular painter, the book manages to help lay the foundations for a philosophical analysis of art in general. It is a useful addition to a growing literature of philosophical works on aesthetics.”
