PREFACE

BY SATISH K. TRIPATHI President
BRUCE D. McCOMBE Interim Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs
DONALD TRUMP President and CEO, Professor of Oncology, RPCI

ON BEHALF OF THE ENTIRE UNIVERSITY AT BUFFALO COMMUNITY — and all who will benefit from your intellectual contributions — congratulations on the publication of your work. Today, we are proud to celebrate the publication of your scholarship, and everything that it makes possible for those who will be enriched, challenged, and motivated by it.

Through your published work, you have authored much more than a printed volume. Your scholarship has opened the way for new conversations, new discoveries, and new ways of thinking about the world around us. Your observations, your ideas, and your inquiries have tremendous relevance for your own discipline and far beyond it. And, of course, they are a source of great pride and inspiration for your colleagues and students at UB.

Congratulations on your scholarly achievements, and thank you for your outstanding contributions to our university community — and to the academic community at large. We wish you much continued success in your scholarly pursuits.

PUBLICATION IS THE MANNER IN WHICH WE MEASURE SUCCESS IN SCIENCE AND MEDICINE – and more importantly it is the way we communicate to peers, colleagues and the public important findings and actions that should be considered. It has been thus since the “publication” of the 70 works in the Hippocratic Corpus – and before! Through publication, we share knowledge and discoveries and increase our collective potential to reduce human suffering. I take great pride in acknowledging and thanking the faculty members whose published books move us closer to the realization of that hope.

FOREWORD

BY

ALEXANDER N. CARTWRIGHT Vice President for Research and Economic Development

IN OUR FIFTH SALUTE TO UB AUTHORS, we again honor recent works that have been composed into book form by University at Buffalo and Roswell Park Cancer Institute authors over the last two years. This year, we recognize authors and editors of over 125 books. When added to the number of books that we have recognized since 2007, our inaugural year, we have paid tribute to over 500 works.

Full length books have a lasting impact upon the academy. Books allow for in-depth analyses, and for expansive creativity. Books are the central repository for information that then informs all, and they preserve a history across the disciplines. They are a picture of one's soul. To author or edit a book is an important accomplishment, and it is this form of scholarship that we honor in this salute to UB authors.

The works and authors we honor today are a true reflection of the breadth and depth of the expertise, creativity and scholarship at our institutions. You have authored or contributed to textbooks in the sciences, medicine and engineering, as well as works of poetry, fiction and non-fiction. Your insight into human history is represented. Your works address important current public policy and health issues, and critical societal questions in education, national and international justice and human rights around the world. Your work has been translated into foreign languages. Your works span the entire globe.

We honor your determination and discipline in bringing your work to the printed page. My sincere congratulations to you on your accomplishments.

Alexander N. Cartwright
Vice President for Research and Economic Development
